

The White Horses Locations

Then and now

Ep 10: The Horse Cure

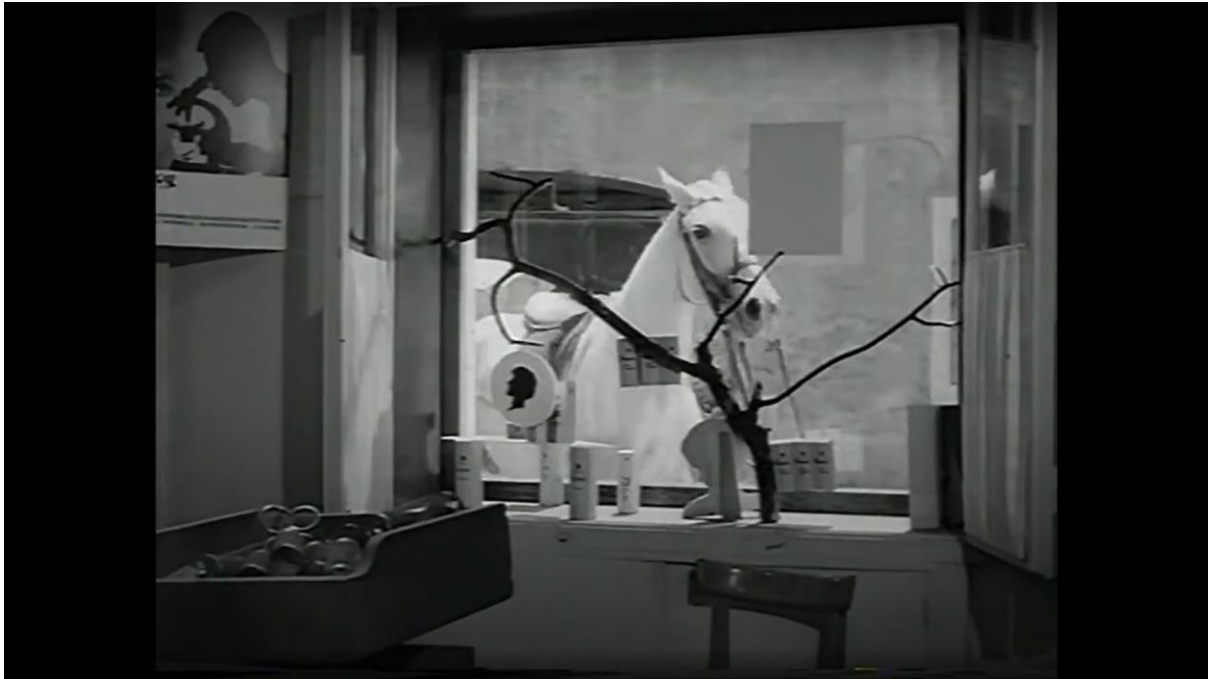

All now images are from Google maps

The old lady walks down the street towards the patiently waiting Boris

The old lady has changed gender but he is just about in the same position

Boris is seen from inside the salon where Julia is getting her hair permed
Note the archway behind him.

This is from outside the salon window, the arch is still there but has now been bricked up.
The salon is still a hairdressing salon and is in Divaca which is about 6 Km from Sezana where the scene is set.

Still in Divaca

The old lady walks up the street away from the church

This time, the cyclist has changed gender and the building behind her has been altered to include a walkway

Julia rides back to the stud farm towards the old lady

These buildings haven't changed at all

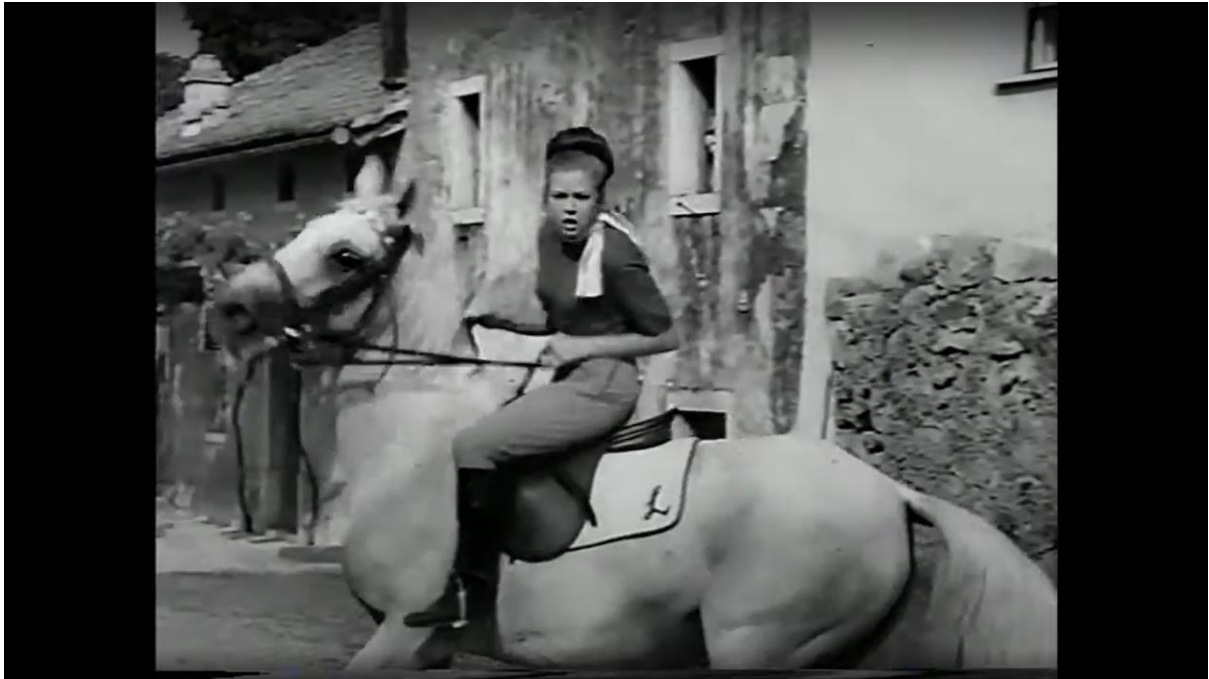

Note the buttress on the house nearest the camera by the crossing

The old lady is distracted reading the note she has just received from the benefits office
And the ladies talking over the fence behind her

A new fence and a gate but the low wall to the neighbouring property is still there

Julia manages to control Boris after the old lady was spooked by the car and in turn spooked Boris

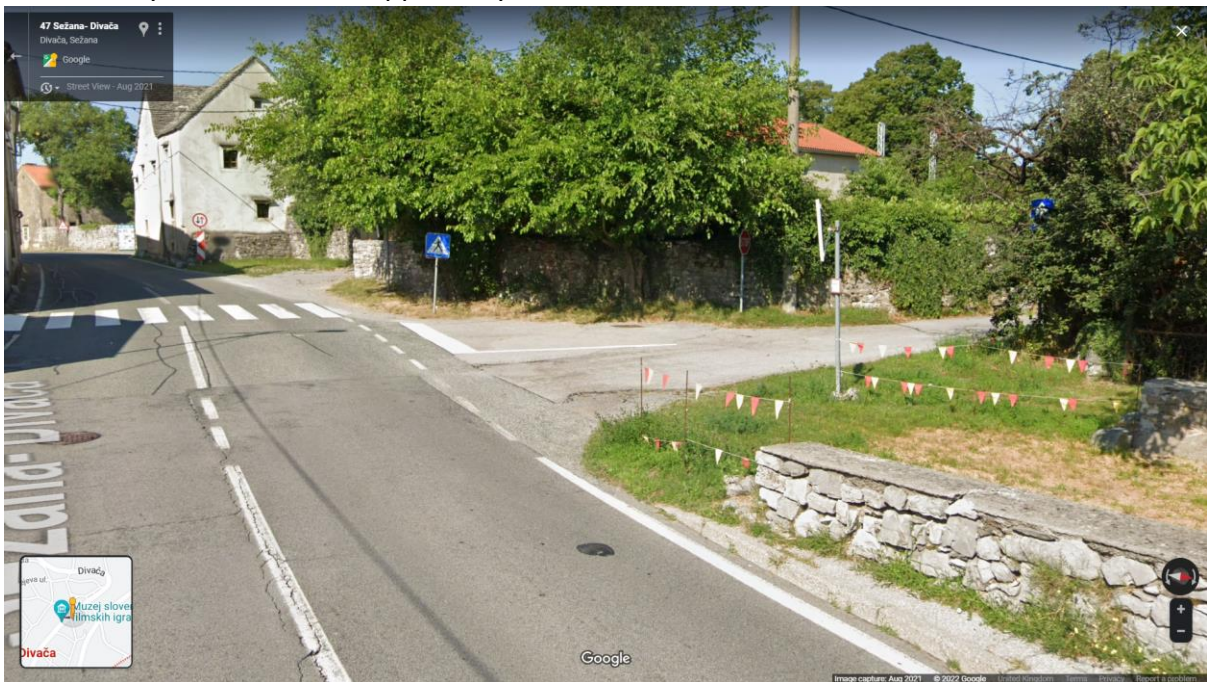

I wonder if the girl watching from the window still lives in the same house

The wall on the right is now overgrown and the house behind Julia has been extended towards the road and now has a balcony

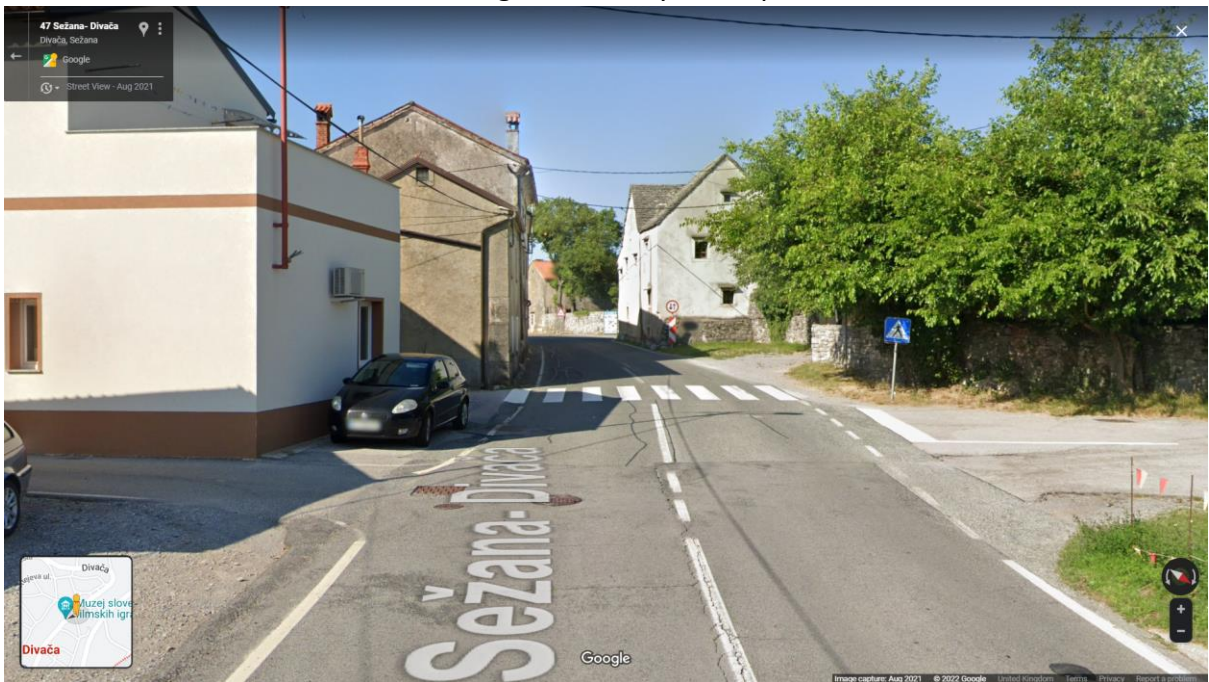

The old lady lies in the road apparently dead

Nothing has changed in 60 years apart from some traffic signs and road markings

A distressed Julia follows the car taking the old lady to hospital

The building to the left has been extended halfway across the flat roof but the power cable pole is still there

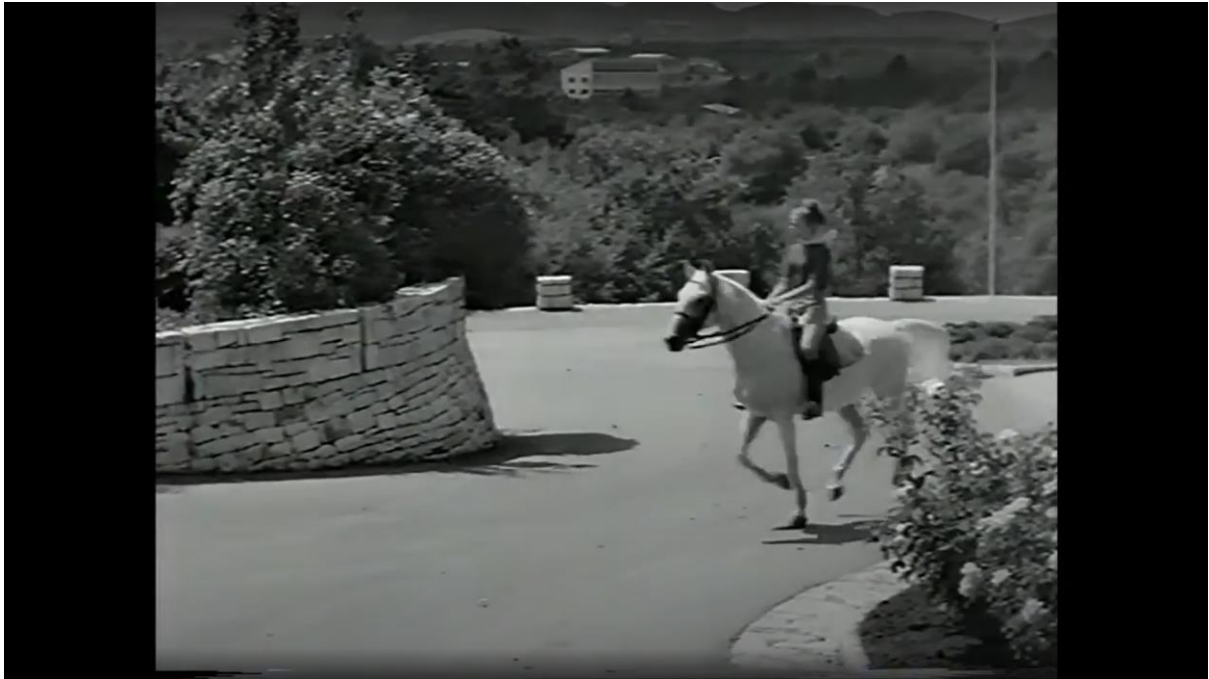

The sign indicates we are finally in Sezana

The car enters the hospital

The hospital is now partially obscured by the tree growth

Julia rides into the main hospital area but from the wrong direction

The main entrance to the hospital is to the left, Julia however rides in from the right

The main Hospital area from the direction of Julia's ride

Julia pushes the old lady in a wheelchair through the Hospital grounds

This is outside the Hospital grounds but is very close to the actual spot just over the wall